July 2025 Issue Number: 56

WELCOME TO YOUR HIGHLAND GATHERING NEWSLETTER SPECIAL!

The Highland Gathering returns to Corriegarth Estate this summer, and along with the old favourites, we have a few new things lined up for you too!

The Inverness Royal Legion Pipe Band will open the event and Cheryl Heggie's Highland Dancers have been working hard again this year to share their talents with us in the main ring.

Please bring your dogs with you and enter them in the dog show – more information on how to enter and a list of the categories can be found on pages 12 and 13.

The money we raise from the dog show will be donated to Munloch Animal Aid, so remember to enter as many categories as you are able!

Along with Munloch Animal Aid, we have a selection of other local charities represented this year. RSABI are again our chosen charity for the Silent Auction, and Cairngorms Mountain Rescue, RNLI, Foyers Fire Brigade, Mikey's Line, Changeworks, Home Energy Scotland, Scottish Greyhound Sanctuary and The Neil Mackenzie Trust will be on hand to chat.

There are also competitions – we have homebaking and growing again, and the Johnston Trophy will be awarded to the best local wool creation by a member of our community. More details on these can be found on pages 4 and 5.

There will of course be plenty to do for all the family. There will be face painting, beat the goalie, and willow weaving workshops run by Christiane Morley of Inspiration Scotland. Our bouncy castles and bungee run are back again, and welly wanging, races and pull the tractor return to the main ring.

Please remember to bring cash with you – although there is Wi-Fi, and card readers will be available on some stands, elements of the event such as the raffle and dog show will be cash only.

This is just a sample of what will be on offer – you will find more details on all that is going on in the following pages, so please read on, keep Saturday 19th July firmly in your diaries and we look forward to seeing you!

LOCH NESS BIODIVERSITY POLICY FORUM

'Biodiversity Net Gain' (BNG) is quite a mouthful, but in the current charge to build multiple energy schemes around Loch Ness, it is becoming increasingly important to protect, replace or enhance the rich diversity of habitat and wildlife under threat. Pump Storage Hydro (PSH) schemes at Foyers, consented scheme at Na Cathrach, previously known as 'Red John', and proposed schemes at Loch Kemp and Glen Earrach are flanked by multiple Wind Farms that surround Loch Ness.

The race to achieve Climate Net Zero is on a potential collision course to damage, or even eliminate, our natural heritage. Action is needed to engage with the developers and statutory bodies to raise awareness and ensure the community gets a say in the proceedings.

Thankfully, the Scottish Government, Highland Council and NatureScot policies and guidelines are emerging that require the developers to demonstrate a net gain in biodiversity using quantifiable metrics. But we need to be watchful to ensure the developers comply with the rules. Although the statutory bodies have a duty to check compliance, the avalanche of proposal documents and relatively short assessment timescale to process them could mean they are at risk of missing important factors that affect our local environment.

The Loch Ness Biodiversity Policy Forum has been set up by a group of likeminded people who are concerned about damage and loss of the natural environment in the Loch Ness area, primarily caused or threatened by major renewable developments. The Forum is keen to ensure that all relevant decisions on planning applications within the Loch Ness area, will:

- Improve local biodiversity and the natural environment
- Improve the management of land for nature
- Increase tree cover
- Avoid the use of natural open spaces for development
- Rigorously assess the local biodiversity of all sites prior to their re-use for development

The Forum aims to ensure all statutory bodies enforce relevant biodiversity planning policies, laws and regulations to new major developments, amendments to applications and extensions to current developments around Loch Ness.

The Forum will liaise with other related groups to ensure there is no overlap of activities and aims to complement their work to achieve a common goal.

If you are interested in finding out more about the Loch Ness Biodiversity Policy Forum please contact:

THANK YOU

A lot of hard work goes on behind the scenes to ensure an event such as the Highland Gathering is a success, and much of this is done by community groups and volunteers, some of whom have already been mentioned in this newsletter. The event could not run, however, without the generosity of Henry and Molly Fraser of Corriegarath Estate, who allow us to use their land, and their staff who put in all the groundwork to ensure the site is safe to use. Many thanks to you all!

Additional thanks are required this year to our sponsor – BayWa r.e. BayWa r.e have been part of this event since it started in 2022, and have been generous in their support by providing raffle and silent auction prizes. This year, they have taken this a step further and agreed to sponsor the event, which we are extremely grateful for!
